FRIDAY, APRIL 12

The bill providing for a non-partisan police board for Columbus was defeated.

There is said to be one thing in favor of Marchion, that is, that he is not in Washington seeking an office.

SENATOR SHERMAN visited his home at Mansfield to look after the post-office and other local appointments. It is said of the noble Ohio son that he never forgets his friends.

WHITELAW REID denies the report that he has decided to decline the appointment of minister to France. He will arrange his business affairs and proceed to his post as soon as possible.

The last days of the present State legislative session are working days and measures are being disposed of at a lively rate. The plowing season is on, and the farmer members will find work at home awaiting them; and the sylvan shades, too, will be a lovely place for them to ruminate upon their greatness of the past winter.

Removals in the railway mail service are being made at the rate of seventy-five per day. Many of the old Republican clerks are being taken back into the service. After May 1st, the service will be placed under the civil service law, and the hasty removals are in order to re-instate as many of the old clerks as possible before that date.

RISMAN, though generally willing for a fight, has concluded that war with the U. S. Government is not a desirable thing to have, and has proposed that there be no more reinforcement of war vessels now at Samoa, and the agreement has been entered into between the U. S. State department and the German foreign office. The agreement will be in force until after the Samoan commission have finished their labors.

An Iowa judge has decided recently that cider is intoxicating. Just why this startling information has been so long confined to the wisdom of an Iowa judge is not explained. There are many fellows in these diggins who can testify since the judge has given the snap award for a genuine, howling, wild-west sort of drunk, which leaves a smorgasbord of life—hard, robust cider is the premium stuff. The judge is not in advance of his age, by a jugful!

Gov. FOSBERG had the misfortune to painfully stub his big toe in emerging from a bathtub recently and the circumstances were chronicled in detail by the press. Such is greatness, for come to think of it, it is this sort of thing that the newspapers are expected to furnish the people of their servants in high office, and an eminent official is not expected to have any actions not public except, it may be, in the privacy of his own home. It was this kind of newspaper enterprise that added to Grover Cleveland's discomfiture when president, and kept the "head of a nation" dodging through rear entrances to elude the "ghoulies" newspaper men.

—J. Merchant was looking up business at LaRue today.

—J. G. Robinson was at Bellefontaine Thursday, on a flying business trip.

—Mrs. Shultz is improving her residence on South East street by grading her yard.

—Mrs. Beckley, of Caladonia, is visiting her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Frank Beckley, on East Center street.

—Frank Shute returned home Thursday night with a fine load of horses which he purchased in Kentucky.

—The Caladonia council has passed an ordinance to suppress gambling and gaming of all kinds within the village.

—A. Burt has been appointed superintendent of the Fifth division of the railway mail service, vice J. D. Gwin resigned.

—In the language of the poet, "You may tear and pull down the old building if you will, but the face of Sam Openheimer hovers round it still." Sam finds it a little homesome up on north Main street after occupying the Bennett building, and has to wonder down about the old corner.

—Upper Sandusky Union: "The most fashionable audience that has assembled at Laine opera house this season was present at the Blind Tom concert last evening, and as the people passed out of the hall after the entertainment each nodded to the other their appreciation of the entertainment. Blind Tom is a wonder and no mistake. He will appear at Marion tonight, and we advise our neighbors to go and hear him by all means."

—In justice to all parties we are requested to correct certain features of an item in yesterday's STAR concerning a former stockholder of the Malheba Iron Co., whom it was said was "unconscionably fired out of the office" by Manager Goshing. This part of the story seems to have been incorrect; that the person referred to was not in the office, but was engaged in talking to men who were at work, when he was told by the manager that if he had business to transact he should go in the office to do it.

—Gus Williams will be at Music Hall on Monday night. The Detroit Free Press says: "Keppler's Fortune," which is being the boards at Whites is an admirable groundwork for the presentation of Mr. Williams' very clever German dialect comedy. Mr. Williams has the faculty of always keeping his audience in a good humor, and the public does not tire of seeing a good deal of him. Keppler's Fortune is accordingly popular, and presents a comedy picture of New York life which is now in every particular and as natural as it is full of fun."

Another chapter has been added to the saga of Charles Bender and Mrs. Nellie. It shows that they returned to this city Tuesday, from Delaware, and after registering as man and wife at one of our hotels, they remained there as such until Thursday morning, when they decided that a change of location would be better, and they accordingly made ready for their departure from the city; but as evening approached and Mr. Bender had given the affair much thought, he concluded that it would be far less expensive traveling without his new-made bride, therefore he secured his trunk, containing Miss Nellie's clothing and about $16 in money, and left for parts unknown, leaving his blushing bride to mourn his loss, and to await the hour of his return.

Truancy Creek.
June Sprague and D. Davis were at Marion on Monday last.

Mike Mason intends building an addition to his house soon. The lumber is already on the ground.

Several applicants to the county examination from this place last Saturday. Do they regret we hope not. Success to you.

George Baker is engaged in teaching music, both vocal and instrumental, through out this vicinity. Violin music a specialty.

Mr. Hod Riley, three miles east, made sale of his land not long since at a good price.

James Hatfield was seen in our village Saturday and Sunday evening of this week. James has spent a week in the country but does not complain of homesickness.

We notice some fine carpet from the loom of Mrs. Thompson. She does good work.

In the contest for Directorship of Big Island Township No. 1, the majority fell to Dr. C. J. Briggs. However, we remark that he is just as good as they could have chosen.

Missionary boys are now canvassing our city from center to circumference, asking for dimes and nothing less.

Our school commenced Monday under the supervision of Prof. Hill. We are informed the boy professor will vacate next week or else have a substitute. He goes to Ironton.

Four gentlemen, of the vicinity of Agosta, were seen driving through the streets Sunday. They looked suspicious of having taken a ride of four miles or more.

Miss Florence Day commenced school in the Wood district, on Monday last.

J. B. Obern, three miles west, met with the loss of a fine horse not long since. It was killed by one of the other horses in the barn, and had one of its limbs broken twice.

The dissecting class met not long since and adopted some resolutions. We don't just know what they are, but we are informed later.

April 11th. Hugo Day here.

Robert Makers' Bath.

The Robert Makers' bath is so much in vogue that it is making their business almost a monopoly. They are now making arrangements to have a new bath built, and are guaranteeing everyone present a good time. And, not desiring to make any money, but recognizing the good work done in the city, the Marion Relief Association, at a meeting held to help them as much as possible, has again decided to donate for the bath, and has again decided to donate for the bath, and has again decided to donate for the bath.

NOTES AND NOTIONS.

Natalie's Budget of Sentiment and Timely Topics, with Some Reference to House Cleaning.

Twould be a dangerous gift, oh potent fay! Whatever feather-headed poets say. To stand outside and see our various selves As we are seen by mortals and by elves. "Ah, would some power the gift give us To see ourselves as others see us."

Poets and writers of prose vie with each other in the effort to impress on us mortals the fact that there is such a state of mind possible in which we forget that other eyes may perhaps see us and our actions, in a vastly different light than our own. In other words, a man is not supposed to be the proper judge of his own doings; that some on-looker, with colossal opportunities for observation, can better determine the eternal fitness of one's performances and be better qualified to comment on the general method of speech and action. Well, be that as it may, there is certainly a very large per cent. of the world's population who seem to live in blissful ignorance of such a possibility. For instance, a certain fond couple, who shall be nameless, little dreamed of the sensation they were causing the other night when, utterly oblivious to all save their own precious selves, they so vigorously made love to each other. It was in the regular orthodox fashion, moonlight and calm, with not a ray of the tell-tale electric to throw sharp shadows. He gazed with such a die-away expression into her eyes so blue, and evidently he read his answer for the next scene would be kisses as explosive as they resembled one of escaping champagne corks. It might have been heaven for them, but it was fun for observers. "Oh would some power, etc." to hear ourselves as others hear us.

Again—in a railway train, not a thousand miles from Marion, a couple of gentlemen, hailing from rival cities, happen to share the same seat. They begin to discuss the merits of their respective towns, each vouching with his fellow in extravagant praise, in tones loud enough to be heard the entire length of the car, and as escape was impossible, the passengers were compelled to listen to adjectives multiplied until they wished both men were in kingdom come. The well bred individual avoids loud discussions in public conveyances, and seeks to make him or herself as non-conspicuous as possible.

A mother and child enter a car, accompanied by a fond aunt, who seems bent on informing the public generally of all her baby's propensities and accomplishments. The infant terrible sets up a yell. Then the mother says, "Why, Maria, what open earth do you suppose this baby?"

"I am sure I can't imagine unless he means his papa." (Yells prolonged—takes him from mother.)

"Why does his little bit of heart—his little heart is all broken, so it is! Sh—there—does it want its own poppy-wopsey?" (The baby yells.) "Does it want a drink?" And, an exasperated lady who has some vague notion that perhaps she may be able to draw the yell out of the baby—she is not particular which, volunteers to get the desired moisture.

Babies will cry—it is a habit they have—but fond relatives might learn to spare a lung suffering people who can have no possible interest in the cutting of its stomach, teeth, or the fit of its cloak. Spare us, we beg.

House cleaning is upon us with all its attendant horrors and discomfort. We are never sure where we shall find our dinner served; it is quite as likely to be on the piano as in the legitimate way, and we may count ourselves lucky if we get enough in any case. Strange how this semi-annual renovation affects the entire household! The housewife with dust cap adjusted, hands blistered and arms aching, finds little to cheer or comfort in the bare, dust-covered rooms that must be put through the usual system of renovation. As for the head of the household, he is conveniently absent as a rule. The children are cross; even the dog stalks morbidly about the empty rooms and, seeing nothing familiar, sneaks off under the shed to await further developments. It is only the thought of prospective rest in clean-swept rooms that sustains one through this most trying of all human ordeals.

AGOSTA.

The stove factory is running full time and the boys are happy.

The third and last term of school for the year began Monday, April 1st.

Will Eiden has returned from DeGraff, where he served as night operator for the past two months. He gave good satisfaction.

There have been the usual number of removals. S. T. Cooper has moved on his farm, south of town; David Dutton occupies the Cooper house, and Mrs. Grinn has moved into the dwelling he vacated.

John Beckley returned from Kansas last week. He didn't like the country.

Peter Holwich and family have returned from Kansas, after ten years' absence, the family living different out there.

G. W. Carey met with a painful accident by cutting his hand with a putty knife. A terrible case was inflicted.

Mrs. Jacob Berger has been ill all winter and is still confined to her room.

The Saturday laundry men are making early spring deliveries here.

Our new school is doing well under the supervision of John A. Little.

Rev. H. L. Fair and family went to Columbus Sunday. He is looking up a suitable home for his family and is intending to go to school.

John A. Little, the schoolmaster, gave an interesting address at the church last evening, which was well appreciated by the literary members of our church.

H. E. Little made out a paper about visiting his wife, but has returned to Agosta to see the young idea how to shoot.

David Super, of West Mansfield, was circulating among former acquaintances here last week.

H. A. Touquet is making Marion his headquarters this week.

TWO YEARS' SAVINGS GONE.

A Marion Man Done Up By Crooks at Chicago.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE ENQUIRER.
CHICAGO, April 11.—Michael McDonough, a section foreman at Pueblo, Cal., arrived in Chicago yesterday on his way to his home in Marion, Ohio, with $240, the savings of two years. At the Dearborn Station last night he met a gray-haired man, who learned that McDonough lived in Marion. By a strange coincidence the stranger lived in the same town. It was the same old story. A third party appeared on the scene with a check for $1,000, which he was too late to get cashed at the bank. Would his friend accommodate him by cashing it? McDonough handed over his $240, and now complains to the police that he has been robbed.

Lakota.
All quiet, plows running, grass growing, and wheat green in spots—some good fields and some very poor fields is about the way the west precinct averages. Some clover meadows are, from appearances, badly killed out, but others look well.

Moving with us is not all fixed up, though we are getting in shape, and all seem to be satisfied. Grant has started out well and I think will succeed. Five years from now, if he lives, his acquaintances can form a more correct opinion as to what his success will be. We have a busy season before us, and that is what we are here for, but I am not going to do much, only see that business is attended to, for my days of physical labor are about over.

I think moving is about over with for the present at Lakota. I was there this morning and made out to find two who had time to husk a couple hundred bushels of corn for me.

J. H. Leonard is progressing with his house, and Gaston & Mowley's lively stable is nearly finished—put up in a whirl.

A young man from Mt. Victory takes M. H. Virden's place in Banghman's drug store. He will fill the bill well.

Rev. Crabtree had not arrived yet this morning, but his goods are on the road. His regular appointment here is next Sunday.

W. S. Parker is running the business formerly carried on by C. Dechold, deceased. I presume he will make a success of it.

The new hardware store is running and wide awake for business. Brother Gracely says the new store will not harm him, but will increase business, for competition is the life of trade.

A Clinton brother tells me that the STAR correspondent at that place was elected road supervisor by a large majority. It is seldom that as good a man as he is elected to that office, but then strange things are liable to happen in railroad towns.

If D. N. Clifton had been a candidate for trustee he would have been elected and would have made a good one.

Farmers are fearful that oats sown two weeks ago will not come up well.

Hog cholera is dropping out a few hogs about Lakota, I learn.

Report says that Dr. Mouser, Jr., is going to locate at Mansfield.

Ladown, the barber, is moving into Miss Hattie Bailey's new house, on south High street.

Another change of barriers at Holland's shop lately; three changes within about three months.

April 11.

Keppler's Fortune.
[Tuldo Dec.]

"Keppler's Fortune," as personated by the ever-welcome Gus Williams and his excellent troupe at Wheeler's last evening, was thoroughly enjoyed by an audience which filled the house. The play, recently and expressly written for Mr. Williams, gives him a rich and wide field for that humorous delineator of the German character for which he is so famous. The plot is held together by a series of amusing situations and brightened by catchy songs, sung as only this Williams can sing them. The rise and fall of the yala but, ever-honest Tonton brings to the surface all that is good with some that is evil in the human character. The fidelity to old friends and honest abhorrence of dishonesty when circumstances make him immensely, but temporarily, wealthy, more than counterbalances the vanity displayed in the futile and amusing attempts to excel in the high station to which he believed his newly-acquired wealth gives him a claim and under the title, "The cast of characters is strong. At Music Hall next Monday night, April 15th.

—Thomas Grindle, of Richwood, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thew, on south Main street.

—H. M. Picher has returned to this city to his position as night operator at the C. and T., after a short visit at his parents' home, in Athens, O.

—J. W. Freeman is building a couple of fine dwelling houses on east Center street and several other beautiful residences are going up in that locality.

—Materials for the new style fancy art work, at Fenton & Garwood's.

—Dried, evaporated, pressed and canned fruits of all kinds. TREW & MANN. 1214-1

—Buy your wall paper at Hinds & Co.'s opposite the court house on Center street.

—Madame Ruppert's complexion specialties. Ask for them at Fenton & Garwood's. (wed 61)

—Frank Foreman returned home from Columbus Thursday, after a short visit in that city.

—Mrs. Geo. Musser, of Kent, O., is the guest of friends in this city, after a short visit at Urbana.

—Miss Jennie Freeman, of Prospect, is spending a few days in this city the guest of friends and relatives.

—Ice cream and home-made candies every day and every evening, at M. E. Miley & Son's, opposite SEAN office.

—Blind Tom, the famous musical prodigy, appears at Music Hall tonight. This is Marion's last opportunity to hear and see him.

—Mrs. Hal Copeland left Thursday afternoon for Springfield, Mo., called there by the serious illness of her sister at that place.

—Moley & Son will not keep open Sunday, but orders for ice cream for Sunday may be left Saturday and will be delivered Sunday.

—The Kling has lowered his fence and sidewalk in front of his residence on east South street, which adds considerable to the appearance.

—Mrs. Dr. Thomas returned home this morning from Marysville, where she had been attending a meeting of the Presbytery at that place.

—Gus Finch closed a contract Thursday with Mrs. H. J. Emery, on north East street, for the building of a two-story brick addition to her house.

—Adolphus Schweinfurth and wife left this morning for Epoxville, where they expect to make their future home. Mr. Schweinfurth will engage in the grocery business.

—C. F. Gill, one of the Council of Richwood, and a member of the purchasing committee appointed to purchase stone to be used in repaving the streets, was in the city making the necessary purchase Thursday.

—Cardington will vote on boring for gas with public money. Private capital has lost all nerve in the speculative hunt for it. Delaware also talks of blowing in $15,000 out of the public treasury for the same purpose.

—Dane Rumer comes with a serious and truthful look in her face and informs us that there is to be a marriage between one of Marion's most prominent and industrious young men to one of our own fair daughters. But we are sworn to secrecy.

—Marion will shortly become famous for the fine horses that are daily seen upon the streets. A few years ago draft horses were all the go, but now thoroughbred roadsters are the favorite horse flesh and Marion can show more of them than any other city of its size in Ohio.

—William Gracely is moving back his residence on south Main street, with a view to the erection of the Gracely-Shindner block, on the ground which his house formerly occupied. We understand that another business block will be built in that locality this summer by other parties.

—There is a good deal of talk about the appropriateness of building up the Thew corner, and there is none, indeed, but what wish it might be done. There are enormous ideas about about the fabulous prices offered for the little corner, however. The maximum offer, as Mr. Thew tells us, is $10,000, and not $12,000 as has been reported. Mr. Thew says he would begin to talk of selling when the $12,000 man comes forth.

—Cardington Independent: George M. Osing and Mary D. Rossmann, of Marion county, O., were united in marriage on Thursday, the 4th inst., at 3 p. m., by the Rev. F. C. Stanley, at his residence on south Main street. A few friends were present to witness the ceremony and to congratulate the happy couple on the successful consummation of their ship. The expressions were very true that Mr. Osing had been fortunate in choosing a mate.

—Among the fast runs which have been made on the C. and A., one worthy of mention was made by Engineer Lew Farber, on engine 22, Wednesday night, attached to train 8. The run was made from Lima to this city, a distance of 62 miles, in one hour, including one stop.

—Kepler's Fortune should draw a crowded house. The Boston Herald said of it: "The story of 'Kepler's Fortune' is a simple and pretty one, often touching and frequently funny. It is one of those stories that might be told at Christmas time to a family gathering. The lines are bright and contain much strength and meaning."

—Baryon Forum: Saturday forenoon Scott Hazlett brought to this city from Ben-ton a woman who had been picked up there and who was unable to give an account of herself. Having by her conversation convinced the officers that her mind was unbalanced she was locked up in jail and telegrams of inquiry were sent in every direction. She is evidently an escaped inmate of some asylum and she will be taken to the County Infirmary until information as to where she belongs is received. She sits in one corner of the jail, is uncommunicative and is apparently about 50 years of age.
